INFANTILE PARALYSIS CAMPAIGN NETS $600

Up-to-date tabulations on the Infantile Paralysis drive returns show residents have gone all-out for the drive.

Eleven blocks have a record of 100 per cent. These are Blocks 3, 5, 7, 10, 17, 19, 24, 25, 26, 32 and 34. The percentage was based on the number of people 18 years and over and the number who responded.

Their contributions have been included with those of the evacuees." To date over $600 has been collected, according to Makino.

HEART MOUNTAIN CHALLENGE

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the San Francisco Chronicle:

CODY, WYO. -- Japanese evacuees at the Heart Mountain Relocation Center today issued an invitation to Senator Robert R. Reynolds (D., N.C.) to come and see for himself the lumbers of life on the Wyoming prairie.

Reynolds recently called for a senatorial investigation into reports that the Japanese are "getting everything and our people aren't getting anything."

An editorial scheduled to appear in tomorrow's issue of the Heart Mountain Sentinel, the relocation center newspaper, urges that the investigation begin at the Heart Mountain camp.

"We would be glad to have Senator Reynolds spend a month with us behind barbed wire under the watchful eye of sentries who wear the same uniforms worn by our brothers, husbands and sons in the United States forces," the editorial says.

"We should be pleased to share our one-room apartments and the rationed mess hall fare with him, and perhaps walk through the snow with him to our 'fine bathrooms' when the temperature is 30 degrees below zero."

The editorial was written by Bill Hosokawa, 28-year-old editor.

An American citizen, he is a graduate of the University of Washington, former editor of the Singapore Herald and war correspondent for the Shanghai Times and Far East Review.

He returned to this country shortly before Pearl Harbor, only to be evacuated to the relocation center in October, 1942.

Hosokawa's answer to Senator Reynolds, he said, is not a criticism of the War Relocation Authority, in which he can see the unbiased procedure.

He insists that the senatorial investigation should be conducted with the facts made public "in order that everyone may know exactly what some 110,000 Japanese, most of them loyal American citizens, have been forced to accept as a testament of their good faith as citizens."
